

Call your healthcare provider or go to your nearest Emergency Department if you have any of the following:

- shortness of breath
- swelling of hands and lower legs
- large and sudden decrease in urine output

Procedural Information

- You received a contrast (dye) injection in the blood vessels.
- Before the injection, your kidneys were checked on how well they work and you could be at a higher risk for kidney injury.

Bring this paper with you to the doctor if you seek medical attention.

For 24 hour professional health advice and information, call:

